DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 4, 7-10 are objected to because of the following informalities: Claims 4, 7-10 start with the sentence "The device and in Claim ..." . It should be corrected to "The device as in Claim ..." Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 8 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by O'Neel (U.S. Patent No. 1,540,801).

O'Neel teaches a tool having a multi-teeth beveled cutter (8) with teeth shaped in a generally triangular form and terminating in a pointed end, a flat cutting side and it's greatest diameter facing the workpiece (see figure 1 and diagram below). O'Neel also teaches a balancing unit (arms 5&6 extending at right angle) having a motor (7) and automatic guiding means for operating the cutter head (8) such that the cutter head is easily adjustable to cause it to move in a predetermined path along the workpiece (Page 1, lines 13-17 & 32-40). Furthermore, O'Neel teaches balancing unit being attaches to lathe (via the combination of shaft 1, shaft 10 and arms 21: see figure 1).

Art Unit: 3722

Regarding claims 3 and 4, O'Neel teaches copier means having a helical cam surfaces (i.e. pin) (12 & 13) that rest and follow the pattern of the template such that the cutter moves toward or away from the center of the workpiece to duplicate the pattern of the template (see figures 1 & 3 and Page 1, lines 91-109).

Regarding claim 2, O'Neel teaches multi-teeth beveled cutter (8) rotating in a direction opposite to the rotation of said workpiece (26) [at Point P, see diagram below).

Claims 1 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cortez (U.S. Patent No. 3,512,561) in view of Cortez teaches a tool having a multi-teeth beveled cutter/sawblade (90) with teeth shaped in a generally triangular form and terminating in a pointed end, a flat cutting side and it's greatest diameter facing the workpiece (see figure 2). Cortez also teaches a balancing unit (20) having an electric motor (94) for driving the cutter [Col.3, lines 50-55]. Cortez teaches in Figure 2, balancing unit (20) positioned above workpiece (12) therefore, its center of gravity will also be above the workpiece.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over O'Neel (U.S. Patent No. 1,540,801), in view of Allen (U.S. Patent No. 4,227,557).

O'Neel teaches a lathe attachment device as set forth in the above rejection.

However, O'Neel fails to teach the balancing unit having a counterweight.

Allen teaches carriage (16) having a working frame that carries a counterweight (58) at the end opposed from the cutter assembly.

Art Unit: 3722

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to modify O'Neel's invention such that the balancing unit includes a counterweight as taught by Allen for the purpose of accomplishing ease of positioning, adjusting and maintaining the cutter assembly in the operative disposition (abstract, lines 12-16 & Col. 1, lines 43-48).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5 and 6 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
